

Working together with you, I appreciate the following things:

From our working experience together I absolutely appreciate the open communication and meticulously-sent updates!

I can tell you have a wide skillset and from all of the examples I can think of not one comes to mind in which I expected something from your side and it was not delivered as expected! Aside from that I appreciate the very clear explanations as from my side there are never outstanding questions once you have taken your time to clarify something, which you always do, thank you!

And last but not least you are a very easy going and charismatic colleague that I would not hesitate to ask for advice from or ask about the weather...either way thumbs up for Ivan! :)

For our future co-working, I would wish for the following improvements:

From my front the main improvement (which is not an improvement, more advice) is that you keep up the good work! Looking forward to future projects (will not say bugs:)
